Who we help

Students applying from abroad

From your first question to your offer letter and your first week, wherever you are applying from.

Students already in Canada

Citizens, permanent residents, newcomers and international students looking for their next program, at home or abroad.

Families

Clear information in English, Arabic or French, so the whole family can decide with confidence.

Where you can study

Universities and colleges in six countries, through our partners.

Canada

Universities, colleges and polytechnics. Most programs start in September or January; many colleges also start in May.

Ireland

Universities and technological universities, teaching in English inside the European Union.

United States

Universities and community colleges. Most programs start in August or September, some in January.

Australia

Universities and vocational institutes. The academic year starts in February, with a second intake in July.

United Kingdom

Universities with one-year master's degrees and three-year bachelor's degrees (four in Scotland).

Germany

Universities and universities of applied sciences, with many programs taught in English.

How it works

Four steps, and you are part of every decision.

1

Tell us about you

One form, about ten minutes: who you are, your studies so far, your English test if you have one, and what you want next.

2

Choose your programs

We come back with programs that fit, in the countries you picked, and talk them through with you.

3

We apply for you

We prepare and submit each application: through the province's or the school's own system in Canada, or our partners' platform for the other countries.

4

Offer to first day

We follow every application to a decision, then help with your deposit, your visa steps and your arrival.

What we do for you

Program matching

Programs compared on your marks, your goals, your budget and the country you want, with the requirements spelled out.

Funding guidance

What is affordable, plus scholarships, bursaries and, for students in Canada, government aid such as Canada Student Grants and Loans and OSAP. Funding is never guaranteed.

Your application, done with you

We prepare your applications, check your documents and submit them: through the province's or the school's own system in Canada, or our partners' platform for the other countries.

Pre-departure guidance

Practical preparation before you travel: housing, what to pack and your first-week tasks. Not immigration advice.

Offers and next steps

We follow up with the schools, explain each offer and what it asks of you, and help you choose.

Arrival in Canada

Optional paid services when you land in Canada: an airport meet-and-greet, a ride, settlement help and a local orientation.

What it costs: Canada, for example

Official national averages. We look up the real numbers for each program and country.

$7,734 a year

Average undergraduate tuition, Canadian students (Statistics Canada, 2025/2026).

$24,028 a year

Average graduate tuition, international students (Statistics Canada, 2025/2026).

$41,746 a year

Average undergraduate tuition, international students (Statistics Canada, 2025/2026).

$23,448 a year

Living costs to show for a study permit, one person outside Quebec (IRCC, from September 1, 2026).

About funding, visas and how we are paid.

Scholarships and visas are decided by schools and governments and are never guaranteed, and we do not give immigration advice. When a student enrolls, the school pays a commission, part of which comes to us through our partners. It never decides what we recommend.

Housing and safety

Choose your housing

Residence, homestay, a rental, or a short stay first while you view places.

Save the emergency number

911 in Canada and the US, 999 or 112 in the UK and Ireland, 000 in Australia, 112 in Germany.

Never pay unseen

Do not send money for a place you have not seen or before you have checked who owns it.

Know the scams

Government agencies will not threaten you or ask for gift cards or cryptocurrency.
